Gould unveils plans for new dining hall

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Gould Academy officials hope to break ground in April on a new, $3 million dining hall -- the first major building to be built on campus in a quarter century.

But at least one former member of the school's Board of Trustees is concerned the design of the proposed building is out of keeping with that of other buildings on campus.

Plans for the new dining hall were presented to the Bethel Planning Board last week.

Headmaster William Clough III and Gould wants to build a new dining hall primarily because the current dining facility, in Gehring Hall, is too small.

Gehring Hall was built in 1931, when Gould had a relatively small boarding population. Clough said Gehring can seat only 140 people comfortably, and for decades the academy has been exploring the possibility of building a larger dining hall.

The proposed new building would be able to seat all of Gould's 230 students and up to 70 staff members and their families.

In addition to the dining hall, which would be located on the first floor, the new building would have meeting space on the second floor and a basement which could be developed for some later use.

The footprint of the new building would be approximately 13,000 square feet, roughly twice that of Gehring Hall, according to project engineer Jim Sysko. The new building would be located 90 feet to the rear of Gehring Hall (see illustration).

Gehring Hall is currently a dual-purpose structure -- in addition to the dining hall on the first floor, there are, on the second and third floors, two faculty apartments and dormitory rooms for up to 52 students.

The new building would allow those functions to be separated. "It's not a great combination to have that dormitory and dining hall in the same place," Clough said.

He noted, for example, that residents of Gehring Hall must deal with early morning noise from food-delivery trucks.

Architect Jim May told the board the new building would be finished with brick and would "match Gehring Hall as much as possible."

Some roots here reach back to the first Thanksgiving

By ALISON ALOISIO

Thanksgiving is a time when many of us think about our roots. But at least four dozen people here can claim a direct line to the Pilgrims.

For example, the family of the late, Rev. Dr. William Brewster, who was a prominent member of the Pilgrimage Society, has a direct line to the Pilgrims.

had royal blood. As for Frits on Howland, he was washed overboard on the way over, and was rescued," Stearns said.

He found his Mayflower connection in 1982, when he became curious about genealogy and started doing research on his mother's side of the family. That's when he found the Howland line going back to the Pilgrims.

Stearns said he was not surprised. "Probably most people whose families have been in New England a long time have a connection," he said.

Stearns found a Pilgrim connection on wife Marcia's side of the family, too, although it hasn't been officially certified by the Mayflower Society.

That connection goes back to Pilgrim religious leader William Brewster -- making Marcia a relative of Bennett, who has traced his own family back to Brewster.

Bennett is also related to passenger Francis Eaton. That connection, in turn, makes Bennett a distant cousin to Jane Hosterman of Bethel, who is also an Eaton descendant.

Besides Eaton, Hosterman can also trace her lineage to Mayflower passenger Isaac Allerton.

"My mother had a silver pattern that supposedly could be traced back to the Mayflower," said Hosterman. "But it wasn't until about 20 years ago that I started poking around in upstate New York and Vermont (where that branch of the family had lived). It was a place to start. After I moved here (from Massachusetts), I really started researching it."

Her motivation to study her genealogy came from the death of

Wood business is good now, and not so good

By ALISON ALOISIO

The future of the woods-products industry in Maine might be tied to the still-pending Forest Compact vote, but the largest influence on current business conditions at local mills is still the short- and long-term supply and demand equation.

And at the moment those conditions are decidedly mixed.

At Kendall Dowel Mill, "orders are coming in faster than we can fill them," said plant manager Anita Mason. "We normally have a slow time, but not this year."

The company sells dowels in both the U.S. and Canada, and employs about two dozen people.

Business at Andover Wood Products, with about 100 employees, is described as steady by operations manager Glenn Conrad. AWD sells throughout the U.S. and Canada.

"It's been steady all year, and it looks to be the same. I don't see

Fate of 2B on hold, but life in the woods goes on

By ALISON ALOISIO

The wood industry in the Bethel area is trying to get on with its life -- with varying degrees of success -- as the forest practices issue appears destined to hang over everyone's head for another year.

Some loggers are still worried about the implications of the Nov. 5 vote that provided no final decision on wood harvest practices.

Referendum item 2B, which got the most votes of the three choices offered, will have to be revisited next November.

The uncertainty is still affecting Ken Grover of Locke Mills, who contracts to Bear Paw Timber Corp. in North Waterford.

He would like to buy a new skidder, but has decided to wait until after the next vote. "Nothing's been solved," he said. "I'd like to see it get resolved and make sure that Green Party thing isn't going to come back."

Grover also took a certified logging professional course -- expected to be required by some mills of their logging contractors -- this past summer.

The course promotes safety, good business management and environmentally friendly logging practices. It is administered by the Maine Tree Foundation, a non-profit group made up of logging, paper company, state forestry and insurance interests.

Grover said a lot of loggers have taken the course, partially in response to the issues raised by the Green Party.

"You're going to need every advantage to get wood to cut," he said. In 1997, Grover said, International Paper will only take wood from loggers who have taken the course. "That convinced me," he said.

Another area logger, who asked to remain anonymous, is very resentful of mills requiring the course, even though he favors the standards for cutting.

"They're setting themselves up to police cutting practices," he said. The paper companies, he said, are the biggest promoters of the course, "but their practices have been the worst. I don't like the hypocrisy of it. The mandate should come from

Five local artists going the co-op route

By ALISON ALOISIO

Five area artisans are pooling their talents -- and craft pieces -- to open a co-op store in Bethel next week.

The store, to be known as the Bethel Artisan Cooperative, will be located on Mechanic Street in the former Bennett's Upholstery building. It is scheduled to open Dec. 4.

"A bunch of us do shows around the state. We wanted to create a storefront to showcase local artisans," said Kathy Goldberg of Bethel, who produces unique polymer claywork pens. "We're looking to set up our own niche of handmade crafts. Other shops in the area have some consignment items, but this would be all handmade."

Goldberg's partners (and their crafts) include Monica Magee of Woodstock (pottery), Lauretta Vero of West Bethel (birch products), Don Best of Greenwood (non-metal jewelry) and Mary Brown of Bethel (country pine furniture and quilt crafts).

The group is also actively seeking other co-op members, as well as artisans to sell on consignment. Best said he and his partners will jury potential consignment artisans to assure good quality.

STERLING GENEALOGY--Jane Hosterman was told as a child that her family's silver pattern could be traced back to the Mayflower. Twenty years ago, she undertook some serious genealogical research and discovered she is related to two passengers on the Pilgrim ship. Hosterman is shown here with the family silver.

ITV OPEN HOUSE

To the Editor:

Many thanks for the recent article on the University of Maine's ITV system. I would like to let your readers know that the ITV site at Telstar will hold an Open House on Wednesday, December 4 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. This will provide anyone interested in experiencing distance education with the chance to visit classes, talk to students, obtain information about upcoming classes, enjoy refreshments and to register for a door prize. The ITV site is located at the Adult Education office at Telstar High School just inside the side entrance.

One clarification in your article involves the tuition charged for ITV courses. The figures in your article were "per credit hour" and most courses are offered for three credits. Thus the cost per course ranges from $282 for the least expensive undergraduate course to $537 for the most expensive graduate course. Adult students fund their education through financial aid available from the government and private sources in the form of grants and student loans, as well as from their own resources and tuition reimbursement from employers. The Andover Education Fund has recently made funds available to adult learners from Andover seeking college or technical skills. Sharon Hutchins, 392-4351, has information on this resource. General information about college programs and sources of financial aid is also available from the Adult Learning Center's guidance counselor, Merrill Bittner, 824-3330.

I am very proud of the many accomplishments of our ITV students, and hope that your article will inspire others to begin or continue their college education. Those interested are welcome to attend the Open House or to call me for information at 824-2780.

CHRISTMAS FOR CHILDREN

To the Editor:

The Bethel Rotary Club is once again sponsoring its annual Christmas for Children drive in the greater Bethel area. Children in the SAD44 sending area benefit tremendously from the support that has been shown for this program over the past 10 years. During that time, hundreds of families have received assistance as a result of the generous donations made by community members and people from all over New England. The Christmas for Children campaign is proud of the fact that it has never had to turn away a request. Every eligible family who had requested assistance has received help since the inception of this program.

We are once again asking you to consider making a donation for the children of less fortunate families. Contributions or letters of request can be sent to Christmas for Children, c/o David W. Murphy, 844 Mayville Road, Bethel, ME 04217. They can also be dropped off at the Telstar Park School office.

The Bethel Rotary Club appreciates the support it has received over the past 10 years and looks forward to once again assisting many families in this sometimes difficult holiday season. If you have any questions about the program, please do not hesitate to contact any member of the Bethel Rotary Club. This is a true example of a community in good that puts 100 percent of its effort directly back into the community it serves.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES

To the Editor:

Once again it is time to think of Christmas as helping others. If you or someone that you know need assistance this year, please drop by the Rebel Restaurant in West Bethel and pick up an application. The applications will need to be returned to the Rebel Restaurant by Dec. 8.

Also, if you would like to be a sponsor for a child or a family, please call Nina Wheeler (824-2444) or Maryvonne Wheeler (824-2444).

Let's make sure that we help 150 children and their parents because we know that people who were willing to give.

THANK YOU, CAMILLA

To the Editor:

Re: A Virginia girl (Camilla Everett) comes home to a place called Bethel.

A wonderful article she wrote, which ended with "I want you to know that God loves you and so do I."

Yes, Camilla, the name of Bethel is found in the Bible in Genesis 28:19, and redaction treatments are now the same as my wife Doris will go through. Your article is indeed most helpful to us.

We lived near Bethel for a number of years and it is a special place in our hearts. Thank you.

GOULD ACADEMY'S GEHRING HALL, as it appears now from Lovers' Lane.

But Planning Board member Stan Howe said that the modern design of the proposed building was out of place on the Gould campus -- especially that close to Gehring Hall.

Howe -- who is director of the Bethel Historical Society and a former member of the Gould Board of Trustees -- described the neo-Georgian Gehring Hall as "one of the outstanding buildings at Gould and beyond." He worried that the new building would run the view of the Gould campus from Lovers' Lane (see photo above).

If the new building were in place, he said, and he were looking at the campus from that vantage point, "I'd look at Gehring Hall behind it and say, 'What's that intrusion doing in the way?'"

May acknowledged the new building would have an effect on that perspective of Gould, "but it would have an impact no matter where you put it."

Howe objected particularly to the large array of windows in the new building, but May noted they would provide students and others with a panoramic view of the Mahosuc River.

Public hearing

Due to the large size of the proposed building, the Planning Board agreed that a public hearing should be held. It has been scheduled for 6 p.m. on Dec. 1 at the Telstar Park School.

The same board of trustees has not yet formally approved the new building, but is expected to vote on it in late January, Clough told the Planning Board.

In a prepared statement released following the meeting, Clough said the academy is in the early stages of fundraising. The initial results have been encouraging enough that the Board of Trustees did authorize presenting the building to the Planning Board, according to the statement.

The last major building constructed at Gould was Davidson Hall, which was completed in 1971. It is not generally regarded as one of the architectural gems of the campus. "It's just awful," Howe said. "No one likes it."

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE DURING THE HOLIDAYS

To the Editor:

With the holidays just around the corner, work here at the Abused Women's Advocacy Project will continue to remain busy. In our work, we find that the holidays bring an added stress to women in abusive relationships. They feel even more pressure to keep the family together at this time of year. Their continued hope for a "normal" family life often leads to a postponement of leaving until after the holidays. This is often a more dangerous period for women, especially because everyone has time off and are at home -- thus increasing the potential for violence, sexual, family and community can respond and help by offering support, taking time and calling the police if they feel that things aren't as they should be. They can also call AWAP if they are concerned or would like some ideas on how to help.

Unfortunately, domestic violence is not something that stops or improves because of holidays, birthdays or any other celebrations. Domestic violence is a cycle of all racial, ethnic and socioeconomic lines. We cannot say that there are particular times of the year when domestic violence gets worse and it almost never gets better. So, although our shelters and safe houses may not be full at Christmas time, this does not mean that domestic violence has abated, but rather that the victims of these crimes are trying very hard to keep the family together at a time of year when there is so much emphasis on family life.

The effects of domestic violence on children are very real and need to be recognized by all of us. In homes where domestic violence occurs, children are at high risk of suffering physical abuse themselves. Regardless of whether children are physically abused, the emotional effects of witnessing domestic violence are very similar to the psychological trauma associated with being a victim of child abuse. Each year, an estimated minimum of 1.3 million children witness domestic violence.

A woman who is a victim of abuse should keep in mind the following points:

- It is not their fault. The responsibility lies with the abuser, not the victim. Nothing they did caused this or increased the risks.
- They do not deserve to be treated this way; they deserve better.
- They do deserve support and help to be safe.

Many women and children will need and support throughout the holiday season and beyond. AWAP is a comprehensive program for victims of domestic violence covering the counties of Franklin, Androscoggin and Oxford. Our goals are:

- To offer victims of domestic violence a safe place to talk during times of family crises.
- To educate the community on the nature of domestic violence and encourage both individuals and institutions to take responsibility in the effort to end violence in families.
- To stop victim blaming and focus instead on the abusers.
- To help stop the cycle of violence so children will not grow to become the next generation of victims and abusers.

Just some of the services we provide include: a 24-hour hot line (1-800-559-2927) covered by staff or trained volunteers, emergency shelter, advocacy with courts, social services and other helping agencies, support groups that help women share experiences and give each other strength, batterers' group which provide a 26-week educational program for change, and community education which reaches out to help people understand family violence. Speakers are available upon request to churches, civic organizations, schools, social service agencies, law enforcement agencies and other interested groups.

For those who would like to help our agency in a very practical way, the holidays are a time where gifts of money will go a long way to help us buy food, new clothes and gifts for families who will be going without this year. We would gratefully appreciate all donations no matter how little or large. We can be contacted at our Rumford office (369-0750) or at any time day or night at 1-800-559-2927.

Those who have been fortunate enough to live in a family where violence and emotional abuse is not a way of life might take time this holiday season to reflect on that and take time out to show their families their appreciation.

AWAP wishes good will and peace to all the families in our community.

THANKS, AND MORE MUSIC FROM THE MUSIC MAKERS

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the community, on behalf of the Mahosuc Music Makers, for their interest and support this summer session. It has been a pleasure to perform at many community functions.

We have an exciting Christmas concert coming up Sunday, Dec. 15 at 4 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church on Church Street. We have been practicing Monday nights from 6 to 9 p.m. in the basement of the church and always need and welcome new members.

We would also like to thank those who will be hosting our bake sale at the Bethel Foodliner. We could not continue without such terrific support.

Gym floor to be sanded

BETHEL--The gymnasium floor at the Crescent Park Elementary School -- water damaged last month after an errant ball set off the fire sprinkler system -- will not have to be replaced, according to principal David Murphy. Boards that had warped slightly have returned almost to normal, and sanding the floor should be sufficient, Murphy said. The gym is now being used again. The sanding process should take about two weeks, and Murphy said he hopes the work can be scheduled over a vacation period. Had the floor needed replacing, he said, the gym would likely have been unavailable for use for two months.

Video arcade, pizza shop approved

BETHEL--The town Planning Board last week approved unanimously a proposed video arcade in Bethel Station's Casablanca building and a pizza business in the Unicorn Florist building on Route 26. The video arcade is intended primarily for the use of patrons of the Casablanca's movie theater and proposed 100-seat restaurant. The arcade will be open to the public but must be accessed through the restaurant. Planning Board approval was required because the arcade will require an elevator, in order to comply with the Americans With Disabilities Act, and an exterior stairway exit. The board also approved an application for Finish Line Pizza, in the Unicorn building, and a variance that will allow its sign to be 12 feet square, rather than the 10 feet called for in the town sign ordinance. The variance was granted in order to allow the sign to fit on the existing kiosk. Finish Line Pizza seats 11 and will offer home and business deliveries.

Three indicted in Woodstock assault

PARIS--Three Buckfield residents were indicted by an Oxford County grand jury last week on burglary and assault charges, in connection with a Woodstock incident in September. Dennis Duval, 51, Claire Lee Duval, 42, and Joshua Queenan, 20 allegedly entered the home of Edward Gammon Sr., 61, in Woodstock on Sept. 2. They are charged with using dangerous weapons -- namely a splitting maul -- to attack George Robin Noll, 44, also of Woodstock. They also face a second count of aggravated assault for using a dangerous weapon, allegedly an iron pipe, to attack Gammon. Summonses have been issued requiring the Duvals and Queenan to appear for arraignment in Oxford County Superior Court.

Three indicted in woods beating

PARIS--Three Rumford residents have been indicted in connection with an incident in which a man was allegedly beaten and left in the woods in Woodstock. Alan Mason, 36, and Pamela Mason, 49, were indicted on charges of kidnapping, aggravated assault, and assault and burglary in connection with the alleged beating and kidnapping of a Rumford man on Aug. 31. Edward Boucher, 19, was also indicted in connection with the same incident, and faces charges of kidnapping, aggravated assault and terrorizing with a firearm. The Masons and a 17-year-old Rumford boy were arrested after Mike Dunlay, 25, of Mexico, was allegedly kidnapped from an apartment and taken to a remote area. Following the beating, Dunlay was able to walk to a camp in Woodstock to call for help. A kidnapping conviction carries a minimum 10-year prison sentence, aggravated assault with a dangerous weapon a five- to 10-year sentence.

AWD gets another deadline

ANDOVER--The Andover Water District has until Jan. 15 to get a new water supply or lose funding for the work, according to trustee Ron Wells. The district is under order from the Environmental Protection Agency to comply with the federal Safe Drinking Water Act. The AWD has received a $532,000 grant and borrowed $296,500 from the Farmers' Home Administration to fund a new source to replace the Stony Brook Reservoir. Two representatives from the Maine Rural Water Association met last week with trustees to help in developing a new operating budget.

NOVA looks for another site

RUMFORD--Following the defeat of a proposed $5.9-million building project on election day, the NOVA Board of Directors will now review new sites and look at some previously considered ones. NOVA is seeking a facility to consolidate the vocational programs now located on four different sites in Rumford and Mexico. A decision on moving at least some of the programs must be made within 30 to 45 days, because work must begin almost immediately on the region's 1997-98 budget, according to director Dewaine Craig.

CPS gets Blue Ribbon nomination

BETHEL--The Crescent Park Elementary School is one of several elementary schools in the state that is under final consideration for recognition by the U.S. Department of Education as a Blue Ribbon School of Excellence, according to principal David Murphy. Final consideration will take place in the spring, when department representatives will come to the school for a review. Criteria for selection include school curriculum, atmosphere and leadership.

Quick response saves house

WATERFORD--An elderly woman escaped her burning home on Route 35 last week when fire erupted around the chimney. Eleanor Blackstone, 74, was not injured in the blaze last Tuesday morning. Firefighters from six towns responded to the call, and were able to save the house. Former Waterford Fire Chief Phil Chaplin, who works across the street from Blackstone's house, called the fire in and then drove a fire truck to the scene from the South Waterford fire station.

Barth falls short in caucus vote

AUGUSTA--Rep. Al Barth (R-Bethel) lost a bid last week to head his party's caucus in the upcoming legislative session. Barth and Joseph Bigl of Bucksport were defeated on the first ballot by Rep. James Donnelly of Presque Isle.

Skiway employees get bus service

MEXICO--Western Maine Transportation this week began a daily round-trip run from Dixfield to Sunday River Ski Resort. Dick Armstrong, finance director for WMTS, said a large number of people from the Rumford area commute each day to the ski resort for their jobs. Skiers may also use the service. Round-trip fare is $4.

Thanksgiving travel at 12-year high

PORTLAND--Travelers in Maine will be greeted with higher gas prices this Thanksgiving holiday, according to the American Automobile Association. The current price for regular unleaded self-service gas is $1.26(3) per gallon. That is 10.4 cents more per gallon than it was last November. Other prices include 89 octane at $1.35(7) up 11.3 cents from last year, and supreme at $1.45(5) up 11.8 cents per gallon. Americans are expected to travel in record numbers over the holiday as 31.8 million people -- 3 percent more than 1995 -- plan a trip of 100 miles or more from home. The projections are the highest since AAA began reporting them in 1985.

Flood insurance available

PORTLAND--Flood insurance is available to Maine residents through the National Flood Insurance Program, according to state and federal officials. The insurance covers policyholders even when a flood is not part of a presidentially-declared disaster. Federally-regulated or insured lending institutions require NFIP coverage before they grant loans. While the Federal Emergency Management Agency aids first-time disaster victims, FEMA may not help victims of a second disaster if they were eligible for flood insurance but did not get it. NFIP sets the rates for flood insurance nationally. Any agent licensed to sell property and casualty insurance can provide flood coverage. For more information call 1-800-427-4661.

From the Bethel Police log:

Thief nets $500 in Big Apple burglary

At 4:35 a.m. on November 22 police were called to the Big Apple on Bridge Street for a report of a theft. The assistant manager told the officer that when she arrived at the store she saw a bottle of mouthwash on the floor. She then went to the rear of the store and found the rear door had been opened and the lock destroyed. Further investigation found that numerous lottery tickets, $500 in cash and approximately $400 worth of cigarettes had been taken.

Tuesday, Nov. 19

At 10 a.m. Crescent Park Elementary School asked that police pick up several rounds of ammunition that had been brought in by a student. The student said the ammunition was taken from an empty residence on Route 232 in Bethel. The ammunition was picked up by police.

Friday, Nov. 22

At 12:27 a.m. police responded to a single vehicle accident on the Barker Road in Bethel. The vehicle was on its roof, but no one was injured. A license request on the operator showed it was suspended. Aaron J. Paul, 19, of Bethel was arrested for operating after suspension. While searching the subject, the officer located a small pot pipe with residue. A summons was also issued for illegal possession of drug paraphernalia. Paul was transported to the Oxford County Jail.

Thursday, Nov. 21

At 1:15 a.m. the driver of a vehicle westbound on Route 2 swerved to avoid a deer. The vehicle left the road and slid into the ditch. There was no damage to the vehicle.

At 12:30 p.m. a Route 5 resident reported that five juvenile males on mountain bikes were seen on his property approximately one week ago. The complainant said he could not identify them. He said they smelled of marijuana and are possibly taking things from his property, but he did not know what. Police advised he call the Sheriff's Office if they returned.

At 7:32 p.m. a Dixfield resident reported he had struck a deer on the Intervale Road. There was no damage to the vehicle. The driver took the deer and tagged it.

Saturday, Nov. 23

At 5:33 a.m. police arrived at the scene of a car/deer accident on the Intervale Road near the Rumford line. The driver said the deer ran off, and a search turned up nothing. The vehicle sustained minor damage.

Correction: The time of a Nov. 6 police log entry in the Nov. 13 Citizen was incorrectly reported as midnight. The incident regarding a non-resident allegedly using the laundry room at the Bethel Park Apartments was reported to police the next day at noon.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors met last Wednesday in a planning retreat for 1997. The board elected the following officers: president, George Driscoll, Summit Hotel; president-elect, Allen Connors, Bethel Inn & Country Club; past president, Lois Ruff, Bethel Furniture Stock; secretary, Barbara Testani, Village Sampler; treasurer, John Dickson, Key Bank. We also welcomed board members: David Murphy, SAD44; Anita Remington, Northeast Bank; Sandy Dennis, Books 'n Things of Bethel; and Susan Isham/Steve Wight, Sunday River Inn. Many thanks to the Bethel Inn for hosting the meeting.

All chamber members and friends are reminded of the upcoming Chamber Holiday Social, to be held on Sunday, Dec. 15, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Sudbury Inn.

The chamber special projects/beautification committee met twice last week to make the Main Street Christmas swags and to make theme wreaths. Many thanks to Carole Duplessis of Pooh Corner Farm & Greenhouses for hosting these workshops and to Lois Kilroy, Nancy Morin, Edie Okenquist, Ann Friedlander, David Freiday, Jan Black, Patrice Beaudoin, Joe Cardello, Barb Testani, Sue Isham and Melinda Remington. All chamber members who are donating theme wreaths for the Dec. 7 auction are asked to bring the wreaths to the chamber office by Friday, Dec. 6, with an approximate dollar value attached. Please give us a call if you have questions on this (824-2282).

The merchants committee of the chamber is to be congratulated for a job well done on the "Shop Local" flyer and the December event series. Please watch for the calendar update in the Bethel Citizen each week.

All residents of the area are invited to enjoy these events. The Key Bank is sponsoring free hayrides on Main Street from 6 to 9 p.m. on the "kick-off night," this Friday, Nov. 29. Many of the merchants will be staying open until 9 p.m., too, so "Support Your Town, Don't Shop Around!"

Co-op

The co-op will also give the partners a place to test-market new types of work. "We'll have a place to sell it -- or not sell it, if that's the case," Best said. The idea for the co-op was born from a combination of inspiration and opportunity. "There was a vacant rent, and Don and Kathy had an idea," said Brown.

Varo owns the building. She had also been toying with the idea of opening a store, but was hesitant to go it alone. Then she was approached by the others.

"The timing just kind of worked out," said Varo. "I hope people will shop real local."

Mayflower

her mother, "I became the matriarch of the family, which is a horrible thing to be. It means you're next," she said.

As for Hosterman's feelings about being related to the Pilgrims, she says simply, "It's fun to know where your people came from."

Then there's Alden Kennett of Bethel, who is a descendant of Pilgrim Edward Doty.

"He was an indentured servant to Stephen Hopkins, another passenger on the Mayflower," said Kennett. "Doty and another servant, Edward Leicester, fought the first duel in New England. They helped themselves to their master's swords and went at it. But because they used them without permission, they had to go to court. They were sentenced to be trussed up head and foot for 24 hours. But they complained so, they let them go."

Unlike Stearns and Hosterman, Kennett has known of his Mayflower connection "forever -- ever since I've known anything," he said.

He's a member of the Maine Mayflower Society, and attends meetings at which programs regarding Pilgrim history are presented, often by re-enactors from Plymouth Plantation in Massachusetts.

Kennett has his family genealogy entered in a computer program produced by the Mormon Church, long a leader in genealogical research. "I have 1,300 or 1,400 names in it," he said. His wife, Mabel, also has an "all but proven" connection to William Brewster.

How does Kennett feel about being a Pilgrim relative? "It's interesting," he said. Regarding lineage research in general, he said, "you're kind of stuck with what you find."

The distant-cousin connections mentioned above are not unusual, Bennett said. "You'd be surprised how many people in the area have common Mayflower ancestry," he said. "If people's families were in New England prior to 1700, they're probably related."

He said area people doing research have usually had no idea they were related to each other before they came together as researchers at the society. "The Mayflower families have come back together after all these years," he said.

Not always for fun

While most of the research done now seems to come out of pure curiosity, that wasn't always the case, according to Bennett.

Interest in tracing Mayflower lineage blossomed around the turn of the century, when some long-time New England families apparently felt threatened.

"With a lot of immigrants coming into the country around that time, people saw it as a way to hold onto their place in American society," Bennett said.

He cites a quote from the Jan. 6, 1904 Bethel News as an example of the awareness of -- and attitude toward -- newcomers to America:

"Although Bethel has several manufacturing industries, yet, it is not in the modern sense a manufacturing town. There is no foreign element gathered on the outskirts, no hideous row of corporation tenements, no sharp contrast between poverty and wealth; but there is a quiet dignity in the broad streets over-arched by the long lines of elms, and a look of prosperous well-being about the neatly-kept homes."

But any sentiment of that sort seemed conspicuously absent among Pilgrim descendants interviewed here.

Asked if he takes any special pride in being a Mayflower descendant, Warren Stearns said, "Not really. It doesn't make you any better than anyone else. It just proves your family has been here a long time."

More resources, researchers

Bennett said the number of people doing research through the Bethel Historical Society has increased in the past decade.

"Since the mid-1980s a couple of hundred people have come here to research early New England ancestors," he said.

Bennett said better compilation of information in both book and computer form has made genealogical research in general easier -- regardless of which boat your ancestors arrived on.

Business

pect any major changes," said Conrad.

The picture is not quite as rosy at Bethel Furniture Stock and P.H. Chadbourne.

Bethel Furniture, which employs 93, had a "tough" 1995, according to president Leon Favreau. Eight companies that bought component furniture parts from BF closed down. "That hurt us. We're working hard to replace that business," he said.

His company had just come off five years of rapid growth when it lost the customers, and still needs more business to get back where it was. New, computer-controlled machinery that produces a higher quality product is helping, he said.

At Chadbourne's, "the past year has not been a good year," said owner Bob Chadbourne. "Market prices are off from a year ago on the products we make, and we had some installation and start-up problems (on machinery associated with an expansion)."

The company, which employs 85 to 90 people, sells one-inch-thick pine boards in varying lengths throughout the U.S., mostly in the northeast.

Despite the past year's experience, Chadbourne is "cautiously optimistic" about business for the near future.

From the loggers' perspective, those interviewed said demand is high. Ken Grover of Locke Mills said prices are good and going up, and the supply of wood at mills is short and demand strong.

Another logger, speaking anonymously, said "you can pretty much sell what you can cut," but while the price of pulpwood has gone up slowly, it hasn't kept pace with cost-of-living increases.

He said part of the supply shortage was due to a relatively wet summer and fall, slowing the rate at which logs could be brought out of the woods.

Chadbourne confirmed that, saying his company's inventory was quite low for several weeks, but is now more plentiful since the weather has cooled off.

Compact

the state," he said. "If the mills go to buying wood that way, it will make them the bad guys."

He also said the requirement put the economic squeeze on loggers: "The mills want to hold down costs, but still ensure quality practices."

Jeff Nevins, communications manager for Mead Paper of Rumford, said industry enforcement of standards would mean savings for taxpayers. "Anything we can do to monitor ourselves won't cost the taxpayers money," he said.

He said his company promotes, rather than requires, the course, and also asks its own employees to take it. "We're not asking the contractors to do anything we aren't doing ourselves," he said.

He also said the course was originally offered long before the clearcutting issue arose.

Which law

The logger is also still worried about the implications of any law passed that further restricts the way wood is cut.

"We'll still have to produce wood for society," he said. "Where are we going to find the trees?"

Mike Pawlock, a logger from Bethel, sells logs to mills and as firewood. He just bought a woodlot, and also still worries about the possible eventual passage of the forest compact. "It's going to take away rights of landowners," he said.

It's possible the state Legislature may come up with an alternative law of its own before November -- one that might garner broader-based support than the Forest Compact, according to Rob Bryan, the Maine Audubon Society's forest and wetlands habitat ecologist.

If that were the case, Bryan said, the various interest groups might then recommend that voters turn down the compact referendum.

View from the mills

Mills and other wood products businesses in the Bethel area are naturally interested as well in how the compact issue is resolved.

Bethel Furniture Stock's Leon Favreau is watching what the Legislature will do. He said that while the Green Party's clearcutting ban received 30 percent of the election day vote, probably only 15 percent "wanted to flush the timber industry down the toilet. I think the others wanted to wake the industry up, or send a message."

Bob Chadbourne of P.H. Chadbourne & Co. in Bethel said it will be good to resolve the forest practices issue. But, he said, his company had already committed to a major expansion before the clearcutting referendum came along, and had to proceed with it.

Glenn Conrad, operations manager of Andover Wood Products, said the effect of the referendum uncertainty is hard to measure. AWP buys logs locally, in many cases through the paper companies. "We get what the paper companies decide to sell us," he said.

He supported, and still supports, the Forest Compact.

At Kendall Dowel Mill in West Bethel, which also purchases wood through the paper industry, plant manager Anita Mason said her company is taking a wait-and-see approach to the issue.

As for Mead Paper, Nevins said the current uncertainty over cutting practices is preferable over that which existed when the Green Party's plan was an option.

"That uncertainty has been removed, and we consider that a positive," he said. He said no company decisions have been -- or will be -- influenced by the threat of more restrictive cutting laws.

ADA AND CHILDCARE

A free workshop for child-care providers will be presented as a three-part series beginning Dec. 2 at the Mechanic Falls Town Office Adult Education Conference Room (3rd floor) 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Parts II and III will be presented on Dec. 9 and Dec. 16.

Brenda Clough, disabilities coordinator at Central Maine Technical College, will present a framework for child-care providers to use in identifying their compliance responsibilities when caring for a child with a disability. Included in the series will be an overview of the ADA requirements, definition of a "reasonable accommodation" and information about removing architectural barriers that allow a child with a disability to fully participate in a day-care experience, and community agencies who can help to identify and serve preschool children with disabilities.

Brookside is a project of Community Concepts, Inc., a non-profit community action agency incorporated in 1965 with an all-volunteer Board of Directors. The agency's mission is "to coordinate, collaborate and to focus resources to help people in need build opportunities for a better tomorrow."

MANAGEMENT CLUB

The Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Bethel Inn & Country Club on Monday, Dec. 2. Social hour will be from 5:30-6:30 p.m., with dinner and speaker following. The cost will be $15 per person. Dinner choices are chicken dijonaise with rice pilaf or vegetarian/pasta dish.

David Marcotte will give a presentation on business communications equipment.

Participants should respond no later than Wednesday, Nov. 27, for your reservation and dinner preference to: Robert Cummings of C.B. Cummings & Sons (743-6326 or Fax 743-9702).

New members are always welcome.

A Memorial Service was held Saturday, Nov. 16 at 2 p.m., at the Newry Community Church for Rena M. Powers, who passed away Friday, Nov. 8. Over one-hundred family and friends gathered to pay homage. Eulogies were read by Pastor Rodney Hanscom and daughter Christine. Hymns were sung and prayers were said. After the ritual, people gathered at the Town Building for snacks, coffee, etc. Rena will be long remembered by her friends around here. Jesus does not want us to say "Dead," for he said: "All live unto Him, though they seem dead to us." A prayer in her memory -- "Dear Father, When my life is ready to withdraw from this earth, and my body returns to the original particles from which it was made, I thank You for the faith that You will be with my soul as it journeys to the new life awaiting me in the world beyond." Amen.

Director/alternate Sylvia and Bill Wright of the Windy Valleys Snowmobile Club attended the Maine Snowmobile Association's 319th Directors' Meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at Jeff's Catering in Brewer.

On their way to Cumberland to visit their granddaughter, Michelle and husband Paul Josephson and eight-month-old baby Nikalaus, Karlene and Ras Bachelder stopped at Poland to chat with Karlene's brother, Jeff Hayes, and wife Nancy and their three children.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell and Olive Anderson of the Newry Bowling Gang were in Rumford at Oxford Lanes one day last week to do some bowling for fun. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the singles with one string of 105; she also was high on the triples beating Gil by seven pins. Gil had won the first two strings but Karlene came on with a strike and a spare on it on the third string, which gave her the top score. Mmm! Of the "Righties," Bea was high on both the singles and triples. Karlene had one strike and one spare, Gil had two spares.

Neil Thurlow made the first team of the Mountain Valley All Stars. This honor was for golf, Matt Ryerson made the second team for the State All Stars in golf for the same division. They went to Vassalboro for the playoffs recently. Neil has started playing basketball for this winter season. We'll keep you updated on both the team and Neil.

Those making the Telstar Middle School honor roll from this area were: Kristina Koskela, Sheri Curley, Daniel Morgan, Caitlin Gallagher, Melanie Ryerson, Nathan Hurd and Ashley Miclon.

The Telstar Middle School honor roll included Sandra Morgan, Matthew Koskela, Danielle Littlehale, Emily Phillips, Jeffrey Chandler, Jeremy Curley.

The Woodstock Elementary School honor roll included Ryan Hathaway and Jennie Cox. Having perfect attendance were Jaymi Mack, Tia Wilson, Brandon Hathaway, Joshua Campbell, William Demarest, Kara Thurlow, Dallas Cole and James Campbell.

Nick and Marta Clements went to Weare, N.H., to babysit their granddaughter Sarah this past weekend. Sarah was one year old in July.

Recently, Nick Clements' sisters, Rita Stone of Searsport and Cynthia Brasslett of Midway, visited with Nick and Marta for a couple days. They did a lot of visiting and went shopping in New Hampshire and Lewiston.

Caesar Morgan is working part-time at the new VIP store in Norway. Caesar is attending CMTC in Auburn.

Birthdays I missed are Heath Poland, Jan Monzo and Mike Monzo. Happy belated birthdays to you all!

This is the time of year we all need to be thankful for all we have. I hope everyone has a happy and calm Thanksgiving.

Ed Barker, Bob Millett, Craig Adams and Ed-die Millett were lucky deer hunters, that I know of, from Stoneham. This week, I saw a pretty deer run across the road by the picnic grounds in Waterford. He was lucky to be still around. He had been down to get a drink of water from the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Millett Jr. are fixing up Gladys Kilgore's house in preparation of renting it this winter.

Edith Holt is at present at Norway Convalescent Home after having a fall last month. She is doing quite nicely.

On Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, Nov. 27, at 7:30 p.m., the Oxford County United Parish (the East Stoneham and North Waterford Congregational Churches, United Church of Christ) will have a Thanksgiving Service at the North Waterford Church.

I hope you all have a good Thanksgiving, and don't forget to give thanks for all the material things and love you have, and don't eat too much turkey!

The D.U.V. Tent 19 will be selling hot coffee, cocoa, and cookies on Nov. 30 at the Christmas Parade in Norway. Members, don't forget to get your cookies there (or bring them and watch the parade).

The regular December meeting of the D.U.V. Tent 19 will be held at the home of Joyce Gouin in Norway on Wednesday, Dec. 11. The program will include an exchange of gifts and nomination of officers.

HERE TO SERVE YOU--Eight Telstar High School students are taking part in a hospitality course at Sunday River Ski Resort's Summit Hotel. During the 12-week course they work in food services, the dining room and check-in desk. Besides job skills, the students are also taught work ethics by instructor Lillian Conant. MENTAL ILLNESS SUPPORT GROUP FOR FAMILIES

Friends and Families of the Mentally Ill is a support, education and advocacy group for those with someone in their life who suffers from depression, bi-polar disorder (manic depression), schizophrenia, anxiety/panic disorders (including post traumatic stress disorder), tourette's syndrome, obsessive-compulsive disorders, attention deficit and/or attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, autism/pervasive developmental disorders, and/or other mental health, emotional or behavioral special needs.

The purpose of the group is to learn more about the physical causes of these disorders, help teach schools and communities more about the special needs of our loved ones, to work with other families to improve services and the system and to share our feelings for mutual support.

The group meets each Tuesday at the green church in Mexico from 7 to 9 p.m. with the following agenda: first Tuesday, newsletter (bring ideas); second Tuesday, potluck and games (bring food); third Tuesday, guest speaker; fourth Tuesday, educational film night.

Guest speakers and educational film nights are open to all interested parties and include a focused discussion period as follow-up. Ideas for topics, speakers and films are always welcome.

In December, Roseanne McLaughlin from Tri-County Mental Health will share some practical tips for surviving the holidays, and the film will be "Depression, the Storm Within."

"Friends and Families" is affiliated with and funded by the Greater Rumford Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Maine. For more information call the GRAM office at 364-3549 (days) or Diane at 369-0542 (nights).

The Historical Society held a potluck supper and meeting on Monday, Nov. 18, with a really good attendance. The guest of honor was Clarence ("Doodie") Reid, who celebrated his 80th birthday on Nov. 3. A birthday cake was served. Doodie was a former president of the society and was instrumental in obtaining the former I.O.O.F. building as our historical home.

The 90th annual chicken pie supper, held Thursday evening, was really successful. The crafts sold quite well and a very large attendance enjoyed the supper. (There were 17 Immans present and working to help make this supper a success!)

Not much activity at our bird feeder. How about yours?

Thanks is such a little word/No bigger than a minute/But it has a world of meaning/And appreciation in it. A Happy and Thankful Holiday to All!

I returned home Thursday afternoon after spending a few days at The Cape in Otisfield so Ethel could drive me to Portland on Tuesday for my medical checkup. We also called on Sarah Bean at her new home in Windham, while teaching in Westbrook.

Last Sunday callers here were Sarah Bean and finance Mike and her brother Matthew of Windham.

Mrs. Lillian Kimball of South Paris is presently a patient at the Norway Convalescent Center.

Mrs. Bonnie Van Dunne and Mrs. Sharon Hadley were visitors Saturday of Bill and Phyllis Bancroft.

Mrs. Dot Emery of Hanover also visited on Saturday.

Howdy friends. This is Tuesday morning, the 19th day of November. It is both cloudy and cool here, but we haven't seen any rain yet this morning.

Last Monday was Veterans Day, so many things were closed, but I was able to get a blood test at the hospital when we went down in the afternoon to visit our brother, who is a patient there.

Monday evening, we visited Richard and Barbara Felt in Bryant Pond.

Peggy's daughter, Loretta Merrill of West Bethel, was here before 8 a.m. on Tuesday morning to start the process of giving her mother a permanent.

Tuesday evening, Peggy and Doc Merrill attended the Musical Supper at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. I didn't seem to have much desire to go, so I stayed home.

While they were gone I had a telephone call from Bryce, our brother on Sunday River.

We were in West Bethel on Wednesday evening where we joined the Emerson Merrill family as they celebrated Loretta's birthday. Those attending the supper were Samantha Murch and two daughters, Joanna and Jesse from Waterford; James and Mary Merrill and two daughters, Kayla and Lyndsay from West Bethel; Rusty Merrill from Harrison; Peggy and yours truly, and the hosts Emerson and Loretta. We enjoyed a delicious spaghetti and meatball supper and birthday cake with ice cream for dessert.

Archie Lovejoy is now back at work at Chadbourne's after having two weeks off.

HEALTHY LIVING

Tis the Season to be Stressed

by Janet Willie - Certified Massage Therapist
Therapeutic Massage

Stress is our physical and emotional response to the demands of life. And the demands we put on ourselves during the Holidays have a tendency to kick stress into high gear.

Through the Holidays we experience an array of emotional states from joy to grief. It is helpful to remember that there is a difference between feeling these emotions and reacting to these emotions. It is important to incorporate simple methods into our daily lives to help reduce the destructive effects of accumulated stress. Allowing yourself the time and space we need to restore a sense of balance within is usually a saving grace.

Meditation, or conscious breathing, is one of the most powerful methods for giving us a sense of calm among the storm usually found inside of our minds. Meditation can be as simple as focusing into the sound, feel, and quality of our breath, for one to twenty minutes.

An easy format to follow is to sit comfortably. Place the tip of your tongue on the roof of your mouth, just behind your front teeth. Keep your tongue in this position throughout the exercise. Exhale your breath with a whooshing sound. Breathe in slowly through your nose for the count of 4. Hold your breath for the count of 7. Slowly and evenly exhale through your mouth for the count of 8. Repeat this pattern four times. This can be done several times throughout the day. Conscious breathing has a tonic effect on our body's nervous system and meditative breathing continues to be proven effective in the stress reduction and healing of many illnesses, anxieties and depressions.

Allowing ourselves the time to be the key ingredient in stress reduction. Allow yourself the gift of well-being this holiday and every day!

Things That Go Burp in the Night

Holiday Overindulgence Can Lead to Nighttime Heartburn

It's the holiday season, and it's time to enjoy the festivities. But, if you're not careful, you could end up with a heartburn that keeps you up at night. Heartburn is a common problem that occurs when stomach acid flows back into the esophagus. It can be caused by overeating, drinking too much alcohol, or eating certain foods.

Help Your Heart Recipes

This recipe is intended to be part of an overall heart-healthy eating plan. Total fat intake should be less than 30 percent of your total calories for a day - not for each food or recipe.

Cranberry-Orange Salad

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1 8-ounce package lemon gelatin | 1 16-ounce jar cranberry-orange relish |
| 1 cup boiling water | 1 unpeeled apple, chopped |
| 1 cup orange juice | can chopped pecans |

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add orange juice, relish, and let stand in refrigerator until almost jelled.

In a bowl, combine cranberry-orange relish, chopped apple and pecans. Fold into the almost-jelled mixture. Pour into a 1-quart mold. Cover and refrigerate until firm. Serves 10.

What is Polarity Energy Therapy?

by Emily Ecker, L.S.W., Certified Polarity Practitioner

What is Polarity Energy Therapy?

It is based on the theory that there are very subtle energy currents flowing through our bodies.

These currents help maintain our health and are part of our internal healing system.

Any kind of stress can block these currents and inhibit the body's ability to resist illness and to heal itself.

Polarity Therapy helps to revitalize these energy currents and strengthen the immune system, promoting health and wellness.

Essentially, it is like recharging your body's battery.

What is a session like?

A session usually lasts 1 hour, on a massage table.

It usually begins with a head/neck/shoulder massage, where many of us hold daily stress.

Next, the feet are massaged, utilizing foot reflexology techniques.

Then working with pressure points along energy pathways, and other forms of energy and massage work individualized to your needs.

What are the benefits?

You leave the session feeling relaxed and renewed, with a new sense of enthusiasm and mental clarity.

Polarity is helpful for a wide variety of physical challenges such as migraines, arthritis, cancer and injuries.

It helps people who are healthy to maintain their sense of well-being, and strengthen their life-goals.

I also enjoy working with people who are dealing with significant transitions in their lives.

And, Polarity is for anyone who wants to treat themselves or a loved one, to a deeply relaxing experience.

The body cannot heal itself until we give it time to relax!

ALMANACK QUIZ FOR DECEMBER

The December page of the Pocket Almanack, 1796, is open. This quest to understand more about the lives and people we have celebrated this year reminds me of another reputed quest which I used to undertake. It was this: Back in the 1960s, a bus full of Pine Tree 4-H'ers went to Washington, D.C. One dark night, after their conferences for the day were finished, they persuaded their driver to take them trekking through the city on the trail of John Wilkes Booth. Our trek to 1796 has been a link, the footprints worn, the paths narrow and twisted. But it has been an unexpected, interesting, and challenging venture.

The quiz about December 1796:

1. By what name do we know the event of Dec. 6, 1773?
2. How many chests of tea were destroyed?
3. What do the initials "E. I." represent?
4. On what day of the week did Christmas occur?
5. What distinguishes St. Stephen?
6. What event on the calendar commemorates Matthew 2:16?
7. What astronomical event occurred this month?
8. The Treaty signed Dec. 2, 1794, came how long after the Last Indian Raid here?
9. What may have been significant about the Stockbridge Indians as participants in this treaty?
10. On September 6, 1796, the West Parish Congregational Church was formed. It was not until 1799 that they finally settled the Rev. Daniel Gould as their pastor. The Gould Academy archival collection of the Pocket Almanack(s) includes volumes to 1799, and no later one until 1807. And that is probably another story.

My answers to the November Quiz:

1. St. Cecilia is patron saint of music.
2. Clement was the first of the Apostolic Fathers.
3. St. Andrew was the apostle.
4. Catherine was an Italian ascetic.
5. The Six Nations: Oneida, Cayuga, Mohawk, Seneca, Onondaga, Tuscarora.
6. The Tuscaroras who had gradually moved northward were the Sixth Nation, joining the Five Nations of the Iroquois Confederacy.
7. The morning star Venus is in its inferior conjunction.
8. Sirius is the astronomical name for the "dog star."
9. Advent signals the "coming toward" of the birthday of Christ.
10. The celebration of the Bethel Bicentennial celebration the monthly Almanack Quiz is based on the Pocket Almanack, 1796, used by the Rev. Daniel Gould. The quizzes are developed by Natalie Timberlake.

Gould-Sunday River Snow Ball

The first annual Gould-Sunday River Snow Ball will be held on Saturday, Jan. 18, in the Grand Ballroom of the Summit Hotel and Conference Center. This gala event will benefit Gould Academy on-snow programs.

Festivities begin at 5:30 p.m. with a large silent auction, raffle, hors d'oeuvres and cash bar followed by dinner at 7:30.

After dinner there will be live music and dancing to a fabulous seven-member band playing the classics of the '60s, '70s and '80s. Tickets are $25 per person and groups may reserve tables of 10. Only 350 tickets will be sold. They can be purchased by calling Gould Academy at 824-7707.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

After their meeting on Nov. 21, members were busy preparing the tables for the Senior Citizen dinner given annually at Telstar by the National Honor Society members on the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

The unit will serve a ham dinner for the Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens at the Legion Hall on Dec. 5 at noon following their monthly meeting. There will be a regular meeting of the Auxiliary that evening at 7 p.m.

There will be toy auctions at the Legion Hall on Dec. 1 and 8. Doors open at 11 a.m. and the auction begins at 1 p.m. Refreshments will be on sale also.

The annual Family Christmas Party will be Dec. 12. Members are urged to come and bring their families. Those planning to attend should make their intentions known and give the ages of children who will be coming. There will be a supper at 6 p.m. followed by entertainment, and Santa is expected to pay a visit.

The sale of light bulbs for the Christmas trees is going well and the tree lighting is scheduled for Dec. 5 just before the regular meeting.

Tentative plans are that there will be only one meeting per month in January and February on the third Thursday. The February meeting will be preceded by the annual oyster stew supper.

Several members reported having attended the County Council meeting in Bethel on Nov. 19. The next Oxford County Council meeting is scheduled for Dec. 17 at the Rumford Post. Auxiliary members voted that instead of exchanging gifts they would bring items of clothing to be given to homeless veterans. Such items may be either new or used but still serviceable.

ITEMS NEEDED FOR CONSERVATION AUCTION

Each year the Maine Association of Conservation Districts holds an auction at its annual winter meeting. This year's meeting will be from Dec. 4 to 6 in Bangor. The proceeds of the auction assist in the funding of the following: the Maine Environment, an environmental competition for high school students; the Natural Resources Institute, a one-week course in environmental education for teachers; and the Annual Poster Contest, a conservation art contest for students.

Through the efforts of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District in South Paris, such items as movie pie, ski lift tickets, a gift certificate towards the purchase of maple syrup, balsam fir pillows, a bird house have been made available for the auction in the past.

The Conservation District has found that items peculiarly typical to Maine culture and environment sell well. The auction provides a unique opportunity to new businesses looking for a means of publicity while at the same time providing conservation educational opportunities for the youth of Oxford County. Oxford County has many businesses utilizing the natural resources. The auction provides a golden opportunity to showcase these practices to others in the state of Maine. To make a donation for the auction or obtain more information, contact the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District, 1 Main Street, South Paris, ME 04281 or call 743-7019.

'Nutcracker' returns

"The Nutcracker," a sold-out performance two years ago, is coming back to Bethel by popular demand.

On Saturday, Nov. 30, Maine's own Robinson Ballet Company will present a fully mounted production of E.T.A. Hoffman's magical tale brought to life by Tchaikovsky's timeless music.

The performance is presented by the Mahoosuc Arts Council with the support of Bonnama Pottery, Chapman Inn, Sunday River Inn and Cross Country Center and the Shops at Philbrook Place.

The show will begin at 7 p.m. at Telstar High School. Tickets are priced at $6 for children 12 and under and $8 for adults in advance, or $8 and $10 at the door. Advance tickets are available at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel or by calling the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575 for reservations. Advance ticket sales will end on Friday, Nov. 29, at 5 p.m. Refreshments will be available courtesy of Cafe DiCocoa.

Additionally, Mahoosuc Arts will present a free lecture/demonstration led by members of the Robinson Ballet Company on Nov. 30, at noon, in the Telstar auditorium. Several dancers from the troupe will demonstrate a routine of warm-up exercises and perform, in costume, excerpts from "The Nutcracker." Immediately following there will be an opportunity for students of beginner-to-intermediate levels to participate in a movement class led by the dancers. Participants should wear appropriate dance slippers and/or pointe shoes. These programs are free of charge and the public is invited to attend.
